The masterly speech of Senator Trumball, which we publish elsewhere, will command the attention of the people of the Northwest for its lucid exposition, first, of the causes which have delayed the war, and second, of the means for hurrying it to a speedy and successful termination. He shows that Democratic policy, with Democratic generals to execute it, has had full swing for twenty months, with no reult but useless carpage, delay and disaster. He riddles Mr. S. S. Hayes' argument on this head to very shreds. Henceforth, says Jedge Trumbu'l, let our armies march, in maidless or set with the edict of freedom is one hand, and a flaming sword in the che. incredible sums of money—to make gas to end just where they begun— sue a policy that has been proved und worthless—the sooner the gov-at and the people prapare for a finanhreast it when it comes. It is not the amount of the national debt of to-day which has sent down the currency of the Government to a point so far below par. Every ficancier knows up another winter in doing nothing the Potomac, and that in the spring, after having spent five hundred millions more, we shall find that the war has but things that is sapping the national credit and filling the mind of every thinking man with alarm.

We suppose that there is no use of pointing all this out to our rulers. They are at least men of common sense and cannot be unaware of that which untitled folks are discussing, with many prognostications of evil, in every house in the land. They must see the peril of inaction: and we write only to say to them that the people see it too and are talking loudly and pointedly about the responsibility which somebody the native of the Liverpool for the peril of the lawer of the Liverpool for the marks: too and are talking loudly and pointedly about the responsibility which somebody must shoulder. They say that if McClellan will not move, somebody else will; that if men enough are not on the ground, more can be sent from the West; that delay is death, and that the army must move! The firmer worshippers of the "Young Napoleon," who have ceased to be idelators since he endersed and promised to enforce the President's proclamation, say this while there is a large better informed.

And the state of t

Grant to go forward at once, and reoccupy the ground which Buell lost when he retreated from Decature and Suvenson. Let us hope that they will not be held back.

We hear of a general rendezvous of the esceny at Holly Springs, some sixty miles southwest of Corinth; and report says that they again number 50,000. Admit that Price has made a junction with Van Dorn, and the number is far too high, unless, as is probable, the new conscripts are counted in. We apprehend that they will not speedily seek another trial of strength. So on the whole, the aspect of affairs west of the Alleghanies is highly encouraging. But we need not say that now is the time to pursue the advantages that have

The firmer worshippers of the "Young Napoleon," who have ceased to be idedictors since he endorsed and promised to enforce the President's proclassation, and more earnest class, who declare that the installation of Hooker in command is the only, thing necessary to put government paper up to a polar within ton per cent. of par. They may not be night in the endes of their may; but if they mean only that a movement and a vistory will effect that result, they are undoubtedly correct. That the army of the Potoma, ied as it is, by the Old Man of the Mountain on the national credit, is as clear at that war means fighting.

THE SCHOOL OF EXPERIENCE.

Our Union friesds in Onio and Indiana ought to be satisfied, by this time, with their experiment with "Conservations" the rebels at New Orleans was destroyed for the Arkansas. The powerful face to mondescripts built and collected by the rebels at New Orleans was destroyed by Farsgrut after the arther than could effend any doughface or scare off any political coward. were set on back sents, and not allowed to talk out in meeting. There was not one outspoken radical speech delivered, in either State, by any man filling appointments made by the State Central Committees. In Ohio this thing was barried even farther than in Indiana. At the State Convention no man of progressive ideas was sllowed to be nominated. The ticket was made up of thind men. The platform was drawn by old Tom Ewing, a specimen of the silurian era, lately exhumed. It was cold and cowardly, like its author. The State Central Committee excluded every man from the stump of Ben Wade's school of politics. A part of the program ne was to cut Wade's throat for the Sonate and eket Gov. Tod in his place. When the President's glorious proclamation appeared, it met a chilling reception at the hands of the Ewings, Backuses, Swanns and Allens, who were "running" the Union party. Instead of a bold and covarial endorsement such as it should have received, it was ignored and dodged, to the chagrin and dissented which justly be long to these who have been inst umental in presents in favor of the proposed of politics. A part of the program ne was to cut Wade's knool of politics. A part of the program ne was to cut Wade's knool of politics. A part of the program ne was to cut Wade's knool of politics. So on the whele, the aspect of affairs west of the Alleghanies is highly encouraging. But we need not say that now is the time to pursue the advantages that have been galaed, if we would divide the confideracy in two parts before the winter rains set in. Pall in for Atlanta and thence to the Gulff is now the word.

The statement which we published yesterday, from the Navy Register of 1820, presents an array of facts which will command the strendon, not only of our own country, but of all nations which clean to have a sufficient to have maritime interests. Mineteen mouths have sufficed to elevate us, in the scale of naval powers, from a footing of equality with Sardinia or Spain, to the level of Great Britain and France, if, indeed, either of these governments can boast as formal cable a list of marine moments as is sho wn in Secretary Welles' register of fron-clads. From seventy to eighty vessels of all described and eighty six, of which two hundred and eighty six, of which two hundred and eighty six, of which two hundred and eighty are powerful steamers, and fifty-two iron-clads. These facts have all-ready challenged the notice of foreign journals. A recent innuber of the Liverpool Pow remarks:

report of the operations of the late battle of Corinth during Friday the 3d last.

Early on the morning of that day I arrived from Burnsville by rallroad with six companies of my regiment, numbering 270 emisted men and twelve line officers, the other four companies baving been ordered to move across the country with the baggage train. At 9 o'clock a. m., I joined the 2d brigade move and companies baving the commanded by Gen. Oglesby, then some two miles northeast of Corinth, and with the rest of the brigade move for ward to the old confidents breastworks and formed in line of bettle.

I deployed company F. Lieut. Farr, commanding, to the front as akirmishers, who acon became engaged. The enemy appearing in front and to the left in force, I called in my skirmishers, and while moving my regiment, who left fank in order to connect with the by the left flank, in order to connect with the Slat Ohlo volunteers; found that this regiment had fallen back and the enemy, in great force, were flanking me. Many of the officers with whom he con-versed blasphemously condemned it, saying it was danuable and could never be enforced, but he (Prentis) responded to then, "If you say you can never be conquered, and that you you are bound to whip us, what harm can the proclamation work!" He would declare ever-tywhere that that proclamation would do more to end the rebellion than all the battles fought.

ILLERS OF COL. CHURCH.—We regret to mnounce that Col. L. S. Caurch is now suf-tring from a severe sickness. On Monday Sickness.—There is just now an unusual amount of sickness through this region. Fevers of various forms, chills and dip heria are the principal diseases. Of the last named we regret to add, there have been several deaths.

- W. B. Jamison has shown us a specimen of the Sca Island cotton, which he raised in his garden this year. He says it was not-planted as early as it might have been, and the refore a large portion of it will not come to perfection. The sample aboven is most per-fect and beautiful. Be thinks it might be successfully raised on sandy soil.

that Democratic generals should be placed to command everywhere. ["That's it, that's it."]

If our armies have not advanced, and if the rebellion has not been crushed, it is because of the leaders of this Democratic party at home, who are opposed to an advance of our armies, and sirg hosannas to the generals that do the least. [Laughter and applanse.] Mr. Hayes rames Buell and McCleiblan, and Fitz John Porter, as the men who are leading our armies to victory. I am not here to night to make assaults upon generals. I am not here to attack or to boister up any particular general. But Mr. Hayes should not forget that the general who commanded at Ball's Bluff was General Stone, a Democrat. He should not forget that the general who commanded at Ball's Ru was General McDowell, a Democrat. He should not forget that the generals who commanded at Ball's Ru was General McDowell, a Democrat. The Constitution says no man sna' be deprived of his life, liberty op property, and you will observe that they are in the same connection and in the same sentence. If you may take one without process of law, you may take one without process of law, you may take the other. The Constitution is in harmony with itself. The circumstances under which you may take a man's life in battle on different from those under which you may take it, through the operation of the courts. So in regard to slave property. It is no more sacred than other property. Vattel says you may do anything which will waken your enemy and take from him the means of sustaining himself. You may take from him his slaves, property, life, liberty or anything else. [Appliance]

A FACT WHICH EYERT ONE SHOULD KNOW, —We ganic weakness.

A FACT WHICH EVERTY ONE SHOULD KNOW.—We mean the fact that there is no physician who has devoted his time to the treatment of specialties, who has renceeded so well in our city as Dr. James, whose office is at 60 Custom House street. He has, in his unassuming way, built up a reputation which will be lasting. This is accounted for principally from the fact that he has always isbored to releter correctly and entirely every person who has sphiled to him for relief. He does not administer drugs which seemingly cure, but totally eradicates the disease from the system.—New Orleans Crescent, Dec. 13, 1888.

REEF CATLE.

The receipts for the week ending to-day amounted to 4,856 head against 4,187 for the week previous, showing an increase of 169 head.

We note a slight improvement in the quality of the stock generally, which is to be attributed to the fact that the feeders and farmers in the raral districts have a last discovered that it is no keep profitable or desirable to send half-starved animals of the "scallaway" order to this market. Under a good demand by both packers and shippers, the market ruled active and the opening prices have been well sustained throughout the week. There have been ver few good shipping cattle in the market, and quotations for that quality are exitively nominal.

To-DaY—The receipts amounted to 1,100 head, showing a decrease of 500 as compared with yes terday. The receipts generally were of a better quality than those of yesterday. One lot of 45 head, of choice Durhams, fed by Jesob Strawn of Morgan county, sold for $53 p head, equal to about 3%c. The market ruled active under the combined demand of shippers and packers, and we note an improvement of fully 10c y 100 hs. on yesterday's prices.
